Data Storage Optimization is the key!

“Paradigm Technology provides the premiere storage options available on the market today.”

Storage optimization is a process, not a product. Our storage specialists work with “off-the-shelf” hardware and software to create solutions designed to protect your business information. Your productivity is preserved through expert design, integration and deployment.

We can protect your business information with:

- Automated backup and recovery
- Data replication solutions
- Disaster recovery solutions
- E-mail archiving
- Life-cycle management

These solutions can be deployed with:

- Direct attached storage
- NAS attached storage
- SAN attached storage

Our business continuity solutions come with all the necessary hardware, software, integration, deployment training and after-sale support.

In most cases your solution can be fully deployed in just a few hours to a few days. That means your solution is a true “turnkey” approach to securing and protecting your business information.

How is our approach better?

At Paradigm Technology we listen to our customers. Our certified professionals use the Paradigm Consulting Methodology to assess your infrastructure and understand your concerns and requirements. We then create one or more alternatives that fit your organization’s technical and budgetary objectives.

At your direction an alternative is turned into a proposal for a solution that will meet your needs now and provide an easy path for future growth.

Whether your business continuity need is raw capacity or a complex configuration of hardware and software, Paradigm Technology can help.

What does our approach mean to you?

Your business information is your most important asset. Our approach ensures that your business information can perform as a true profit-making asset of your business.
